

THE HIGH:

Morphine's activation of the opioid receptor in neurons of the nucleus accumbens in the brain 1 reigns in the release of the neurotransmitter γ -aminobutyric acid (GABA) 2. This drop in GABA causes a neighboring cell to expel dopamine 3, which in turn elicits the euphoria associated with opioids.