

THE NINEFOLD RING

The ninefold symmetry in centrioles is explained by the 40° angle that formed when SAS-6 protein dimers bind to each other. This angle allows nine dimers to bind completing the 360 degrees that form a circle—with their outstretched spokes providing a scaffold for microtubules.

